Backhoe culler arrived yesterday He is absolutely fell on Jack. By today we were basically giving up on supervising him. Had removed most of the rubble for the cellar with a heavily armed escort of 2 workmen. The cellar is divided into 6 different rooms by brick walls. The north rooms have brick flooring the north west room has cement. Over the brick a smooth finish. The north east room has a fireplace.

Taking out the kettles settle.
This is a second one
to put a kettle in. The spits appear to have be-intentionally broken to
for the garden. Lots of shell in the matrix. Some black transfer print porcelain.
Pretty late stuff.
Dug around behind the fire
place on the east side.
It appears that the entire

the south side but the original bath chimney support
field 7 was broken off and
dell of the modifications
now visible are pretty later (Being period). What they built was an oven with
a stove hole, a kettle
stable place or a firebox.
There are at least one,
maybe two flames behind
these.
There is a place in the floor
in the entrance NE corner
where the links are layered in a different pattern. Under north is the thin sand
layer with the bricks below
being natural. The rest of the floor floor is not this way. The room is exceptionally weird, a brick floor was laid in a really thick
pattern or solid. This floor appears crawl and
A layer of sand was placed on top of this and a new floor laid in a herringbone pattern. More sand on the lower floor was very uneven. Much more sand was put in front of the fireplace.

The whole structure is altering, moving, beams + stretchers. One wall is central.

The cellar is now a room. There appear to have originally been 4 fireplaces. There are places at the top of the walls here. They don’t appear to have been painted.

Clean, cook. Nobody out today.

Drew in cistern. 20 cm. The artifacts from this one contain a lot more domestic debris (so far) than the other one did. A hoe, whiteware, stoneware etc. Preliminary.

Bill drawing a posthole with pretty restless sides. He thinks it's a well. It's not.

Hattie's feature 381 has become a shallow thing with a possible posthole in it.

Mike has uncovered a very large rectangular area. Perhaps some sort of a planting feature.

26 Aug 87 Wed.

Cloudy, cool, no rain yet. Barreness out. S W wind.

The cistern has gotten too dangerous to finish with.
Our current technology will wait till another one wash.

27 Aug 87 Thurs.

Humid like this (right now) Katherine out. Left at office. JohnFine here.

The morning we have to do reviews on Bruce, Becky & Monk call up for August soon.

Jane done to features.

Elizabeth 8:00

Mark working on a very large out Bb./pontefick. Joe finished with Eve.

Bob & Mikey diggin pit added to his funds. Part of a trade.

Yance General Davis 2x2.

Dave can't really discuss it anymore because of mono.

I think we have an epidemic of it here.

28 Aug 87 Fri

Foggy, warm.

Bonnie called, showed up. Kathy & Katherine out.
Elizabeth told to "take it down a little."
Dave plugging in his unit.
The door note: Lena traveling. Mark in a fracture.
John still in hospital? Amon going down. Phil

31 Aug 87 Mon

Clean, cool.
Massive damage from
Fri afternoon's storm.
Wheelbarrow tree down
as well as quite a few others. Whole a mess.
Arthur arrived at 8:30
P.M.

During Tom got left
here today. He arrived
at 9:30 for work.
Arthur cleaned off the
stop of the castle and
the longer middle
water
within it. Then he dumped a 2-bucket wide trickle in the south of DC in order to clean the Extent of the artificial fill land. Need to scope properly this.

Mound fill from across the front steps of the main home. Note nothing fill from the southern end of VA. One of the is identification for aerial photographs.

Cistern below house is coming up with institutional white rags, baking soda, bottles & window glasses.
